Before a crowd of two thousand five hundred people the sturdy football warriors of Washington and Lee University fought the eleven of the University of North Carolina to a no-score draw on the Casino gridiron yesterday afternoon. Although the contest was rather slowly and loosely played, the interest and enthusiasm of the throng that filled the east and west stands and overflowed on the side lines never seemed to lag and time and again hearty cheers rolled out over the field and hundreds of Carolina and Washington and Lee pennants were waved on high.

"Rooters" Equally Divided.
A remarkable feature of the game was the almost equal division of the supporters of the two elevens, about a half of the crowd "rooting" for North Carolina and the other half for Washington and Lee. Owing to the fact, however, that practically everyone had expected Carolina to be victorious, the "rooters" of the Virginia team exhibited far more joy and enthusiasm at the close of the game than did the wearers of the colors of the Old North State, who seemed to be greatly disappointed over the failure of their team to score.

Another rather peculiar feature of the game was the fact that the players of both "varsities" wore suits exactly alike, making it almost impossible for the spectators to distinguish one team from the other during the scrimmages.

W. and L. Started With Whirl.
During the first few minutes of play, there was considerable uneasiness among the hundreds of the Carolina supporters, for Washington and Lee started out with a whirl and rush that almost carried the Carolina players off their feet. Securing the ball on a fatal fumble following the kick-off, the Washington and Lee players swept down the field to within eight yards of the Carolina goal line and it looked as if they would score, but the game was then checked by a referee's decision against the Washington and Lee players, who were forced to make an on-side kick, hoping to thus score a touchdown. The leather, however, hit the ground behind the goal line and the play counted for a touchback, entitling Carolina to kick the ball out from its twenty-five yard line.

"Tarheels" Took a Brace.
Having prevented a score, the Carolina team took a brace and after the first five minutes of play its goal was not again in danger during the first half, the ball being in Washington and Lee's territory most of the time. On one or two occasions in that half, Carolina was within striking distance of Washington and Lee's goal, but on each occasion the Virginia boys showed a grim determination to hold Carolina safe and each time they succeeded in protecting their goal.

Carolina seemed to have a little better of the play in the opening half, but the unexpected strength shown by Washington and Lee came as a great surprise to both the Carolina players and "rooters," and there was considerable uneasiness in the camp of the Old North State during the intermission.

Brighter for Carolina.
The work of the Carolina team during the first few minutes of the second half caused great joy among its "rooters." Securing the ball on the kick-off after Rhodes had fumbled on his twenty yard line, Carolina carried it up ten yards and then Mann and Davis essayed a forward pass and the latter carried the ball across the line for what nearly everybody on the field supposed was a touchdown. This was occasion for a demonstration on the part of the Old North State color bearers, but their joy was short lived, for the officials declared that the forward pass was illegal. It having crossed the line of scrimmage and the touchdown did not count, Carolina being penalized fifteen yards for the illegal play.

Situation Changed.
This was the only occasion on which Washington and Lee's goal was in danger during the second half, the ball being kept in Carolina's territory through the great punting of Rhodes. Both teams played faster and better ball in the closing half and several good runs were made by Mann, McNeill, Crosswell, Armentrout and Streit.

In the last few minutes of play Washington and Lee was dangerously near Carolina's goal and it was thought that the Virginia boys would attempt a drop or place kick at goal, but no such attempt was made.

Both Teams Practice.
Both elevens showed a sad need of practice, the playing being ragged at times. Every one of the half dozen or more forward passes attempted by the elevens failed, resulting in a great deal of punting. There was considerable holding in line also, and several penalties resulted from that.

On account of these penalties both teams did a great deal of punting. Rhodes, of Washington and Lee, outclassed McNeill, Sutton and Crosswell, of Carolina, in this department, and on several occasions he sent the leather out of the danger zone by long punts.

Crowd On Hand Early.
Although the play was not scheduled to begin until 3:30 o'clock, the crowd began assembling on the field nearly an hour before that time, and shortly after 3 o'clock over two thousand enthusiasts, nearly all of them wearing the colors of the rival elevens, were gathered in the east, west and grand stands and around the side lines.

The Washington and Lee eleven was the first to reach the field, passing through the extreme southerly gate of the park at 3:20 o'clock amid a chorus of cheers from its supporters. The team immediately went through light signal practice, followed by punting and passing the ball. North Carolina entered the main gate of the park a few minutes behind the Washington and Lee players and it also passed and punted the ball for a few minutes.

Carolina Objects to Umpire.
Just before the time for the game to begin, Coach Lamson, of North Carolina, raised an objection to Umpire J. A. Massie, who formerly played with the University of Virginia team. The coach said that some of his player's objected to Mr. Massie because he was a Virginia man, but after considerable discussion it was agreed that Mr. Massie should officiate, as the manager of the Carolina team had written the athletic committee of the Merchants' Association accepting him as the umpire for the game.

Carolina Wins Toss.
Carolina won the toss and chose to defend the north goal. This gave them the advantage of the strong northwesterly wind which was blowing down the field. At 3:35 o'clock Rhodes sent the leather whirling across the field to Carolina's twenty yard line, where Ruffin caught it and ran up three yards before being downed by Streit and Dow. On the first

"Ty" Cobb Starts Batting Rally That Gives Team First Game With St.
Louis and Insures Pennant—Play
Chicago for Championship.

(By the Associated Press.)
ST. LOUIS, MO., Oct. 5.—Detroit today won the American League pennant by defeating St. Louis 10 to 2. Up to the fourth inning Howard held Detroit safe, not a man reaching second base, but in the fourth Cobb's triple started a swiftest that sent Jones across the plate in that inning and so worked on Powell that two bases on balls, two triples and a double were marked up for Detroit in the fifth, netting five runs.

After the disastrous hit, the result of the game was never in doubt. In the seventh and in the ninth St. Louis made a run but by the close of the game Detroit had added four tallies to its score, 3 of them coming in the final inning. Ground rules were unnecessary. Two more games are scheduled for tomorrow.

Umpire "Billy" Evans, who was severely injured during a Detroit series several weeks ago, worked with Umpire Sheridan and was warmly greeted by the Detroit players who showed strong disapproval when the bottle was thrown.

Building Catches Fire From Falling Lamp, and in Mad Struggle for Freedom Many Are Trampled—Candidate for Mayor Bruised and Scratched in Fall.

(By Associated Press.)
WATERBURY, CONN., Oct. 5.—By the collapse of the floor in the North End Athletic Club, at 36 East Farm street, tonight during a Republican rally, two hundred men were precipitated into the cellar of the building. As the floor gave way, a board kept a lamp from its bracket and immediately the building caught fire.

In a mad struggle to get out of the cellar, many of the men were trampled under and everyone became panic stricken at the sight of the fire. Only one man dangerously hurt.

Doubtless many would have been killed had not those who escaped shouted to those in the cellar that there was no danger. As it was only one man, Harry Dean, a well known Republican worker, was dangerously hurt. Dean was found unconscious at the bottom of the heap when the police and firemen came to the rescue.

ATHLETICS WIN TWICE.

Fifteen Innings in First Game With Washington.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct.—Philadelphia secured a double victory over Washington today. The first game went fifteen innings and the Philadelphia used three pitchers—Fritz, a youngster from New Orleans, Waddell and Vickers. Charles Smith, of the locals, was hit freely, but through good support three runs were cut off at the plate.

Fritz became unsteady in the third inning and was relieved by Waddell, who in turn was succeeded in the fourth inning by Vickers. A bad throw by T. Smith to Shipke in the fifteenth inning and an effort to head off Hartwell at third, lost the game for Washington. Vickers was going so strongly in the first game that Mack pitched him in the second and he did not allow one of the locals to reach first base.

PEACEMAKERS' GIFTS TO BRUTON CHURCH

Bishops Present Bible From King Edward and Lectern From President Roosevelt.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE ATTEND

When Church Had Been Packed the Blinds Were Forced Open and Windows Were Crowded With Eager Spectators—Lord Bishop of London Made Notable Address.

(By Associated Press.)
WILLIAMSBURG, VA., Oct. 5.—Messengers from the heads of the two great English-speaking nations journeyed to Williamsburg today from the triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States and presented to Bruton Parish church, which has been longer in continuous use than any other Episcopal church in America, beautiful gifts as tokens of the high admiration in which the memory of the founders of the pioneer house of worship is held on both sides of the Atlantic.

The gift of President Roosevelt is a bronze lectern, which now holds a magnificent edition of the English Bible sent by the King of England.

Great Crowd Attracted.
The service at the parish church was full of historic interest and attracted a great crowd, including practically the entire membership of the Richmond convention.

It was for the purpose of presenting to Bruton Parish the Bible sent by King Edward that the Bishop of London visited America. In his address at the church the bishop referred feelingly to the King's interest in the house of worship built by the colonists. He spoke of King Edward and the President as "peacemakers."

Bishop Satterlee, of the diocese of Washington, in representing President Roosevelt at the services, spoke of the appropriateness of gifts being received from the two rulers at this time, and declared that he believed it would be the beginning of the reunion of Christians.

Many Prominent Churchmen.
The ceremony incident to the presentation of the gifts was in accordance with the beautiful Episcopal ritual, but the great interest attached because of the prominence of the churchmen participating. These not only included a number of foreign bishops, but the highest Episcopal clergy in the United States, and in the audience as representatives of the general convention were many prominent citizens of the United States. The delegation as appointed represented the thirteen original states.

J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York, occupied a pew directly in front of the altar and was the object of such curiosity to his evident embarrassment. Wooden shutters closed all of the windows of the church, principally on account of the fact that services were being held in the parish church yard simultaneously with the presentation ceremonies.

The interest of the crowd was so great that before the ceremony had fairly started these shutters were crowded open, and the people climbed to the window ledges, where from that position large numbers watched the services.

The visiting bishops robed in the parish house and their procession with the choir across the shaded, grave-studded church yard was one of the most imposing features of the ceremonies. When the procession filed into the church it filed down a line made by two walls of humanity.

Overflow Meeting.
After the services in the church Bishop Ingram addressed the overflow meeting in the parish churchyard. Five special trains of seven coaches each were used in conveying the crowd to Williamsburg and return.

Boys From Lexington Visit Exposition and Spend Pleasant Evening—Carolinians Return Home.

Coach Lamson and the North Carolina football squad left this city at 8:30 o'clock last night for Norfolk, spending the night at the Lorraine Hotel in that city. This morning they will go to Portsmouth and take the Seaboard train for Chapel Hill, N. C., in order to be back at the university for the morning session Monday.

The Carolina team did not get here until noon yesterday, spending Friday night and yesterday morning in Norfolk. The team arrived in the city across the Roads at 8 o'clock Friday night and was expected to come directly to Newport News in company with Mr. John R. Morton and Dr. Clarence Porter Jones, who met them at the train in Portsmouth, as had been arranged. The team had, however, arranged to spend the night at the Lorraine Hotel in spite of the fact that it was understood that they were to be entertained at the Warwick Hotel.

The Washington and Lee team with President Denmy and Coach Brown will leave for Lexington, Va., at 7:30 o'clock this morning, arriving at the university late tonight. The players again visited the Exposition last night and all of them are very well pleased with their trip, the outcome of the game and the entertainment given them in Newport News. They all seem anxious to return here for a game next season and the local lovers of the gridiron sport would welcome their return.

Association Adjourns After Selecting Chicago as Next Meeting Place.

(By Associated Press.)
MEMPHIS, TENN., Oct. 5.—After selecting Chicago for the meeting place next year and calling upon Congress to authorize work for a 14-foot channel from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes, the second annual convention of the Lakes to the Gulf Waterways Association adjourned sine die late today.

Vote 26 to 17.
Mr. Martin was elected over Mr. Southgate by a vote of 26 to 17. A committee immediately notified Mr. Martin and he was escorted into the room and announced his acceptance of the office.

During the meeting a telegram was read from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Edwards bearing on the situation but the message was withheld for the time.

The election of Mr. Martin will come as a great surprise to the people of this city. The first vice president's name had never been seriously considered here in connection with the office of director general.

RESULT OF D-LIBERATE PLAN

Question of Whether This City Gets Big Games in the Future Is Settled.

The big crowd which turned out to the football game between the University of North Carolina and Washington and Lee University at the Casino park yesterday afternoon, assures the success of this class of sport in Newport News, and in the future even more important games than this one will be played here.

The University of Virginia has already asked for a game in this city next season and the athletic committee of the Merchants' Association is in receipt of letters from several colleges in the north asking for games here. If possible a game will be arranged between Virginia and one of those colleges.

Last night the managers of both Washington and Lee and North Carolina asked Chairman Horwitz, of the athletic committee, for games here next season and it is probable that these teams will meet here again in 1908.

The total receipts of the game counted for up to 10 o'clock last night amounted to $850 and it is expected that the amount will be increased to $900 when all of the tickets and cash is turned in by the different stores that had the tickets on sale. Each team received $250 as its share of the receipts, leaving about $350 for the Merchants' Association for cost of preparing the field, advertising the game and the music will amount to more than $200 leaving between $100 and $150 clear for the association. The amount of money in proportion to the number of people attending was cut down by the sale of a large number of children's tickets at twenty-five cents each. This money will be expended in improving Washington and Orcutt Squares.

Chalmette Steams for Baltimore.
Having had new boilers installed at the shipyard, the Southern Pacific liner Chalmette, Captain Boyd, sailed yesterday morning for Baltimore, where she will load for New Orleans. The vessel will be engaged in the coastwise freight service between those ports in the future.

Coal for Manila.
The British steamer Glenlee sailed yesterday for Manila with a cargo of 5,500 tons of coal, valued at $15,550.
